SUMMARY

Hi! I'm Parth Wakodikar, an aspiring web developer passionate about creating clean, interactive, and responsive websites. I work with HTML, CSS, JavaScript, and frameworks like Tailwind, and I'm currently learning the MERN stack to grow my full-stack development skills.

I also have experience with C++ and Java, and I'm planning to explore cloud computing and Python frameworks to broaden my development expertise and build versatile projects. I love sharing my work on GitHub and deploying live projects using Vercel, making my learning and progress visible to the community.

When I'm not coding, I enjoy exploring tech trends, building small projects, and connecting with like-minded people to learn and collaborate.
